Measure Color...Measure Quality

Learn the difference between 45°/0° and d/8° geometry. HunterLab systems measure reflected or transmitted color for materials in the form of solids, sheets, films, pellets, granules, tablets, powders, pastes and liquids. Bench-top, portable and on-line color measurement systems are available for the chemical industry. Instrumental measurement eliminates the subjectivity of visual methods, allows for greater sensitivity and maximizes repeatability.

Scaling Analysis in Modeling Transport and Reaction Processes: A Systematic Approach to Model Building and the Art of Approximation

William B. Krantz

This book is unique as the first effort to expound on the subject of systematic scaling analysis. Not written for a specific discipline, the book targets any reader interested in transport phenomena and reaction processes. The book is logically divided into chapters on the use of systematic scaling analysis in fluid dynamics, heat transfer, mass transfer, and reaction processes.
