EXCEL WIZARDRY October 16, 2018

Bob Jones is a chemical engineer, Clemson alumnus, with 35 years of experience in the ECP industry. He is currently a principal process engineer at Fulcrum BioEnergy where he is working on a first of kind plant to convert municipal solid waste (MSW) to jet fuel.

I'm sure that almost everyone has encountered information that would be really useful, except that only the graphs are provided. The underlying raw data and perhaps some equations would be very useful when trying to actually utilize the information. Sure, there is the tried and true ruler and visual interpolation method, but there are better ways to convert graphs to data. In this presentation, Bob will show an easy but powerful way to use Excel to do the heavy lifting for you.
