Conference Sponsorship Opportunities

The 4th China Conference on Process Safety is presented by the Center for Chemical Process Safety (CCPS), and China University of Petroleum. This conference aims to bring together professionals, government, and academics in China and internationally to share advancements in process safety. The conference will be conducted via English and Chinese with simultaneous translation.

Sponsoring this event shows your company's commitment to process safety in China. It allows your organization to powerfully communicate its message to a captive, focused audience. Your company will have the opportunity to generate new contacts and meet with current customers to generate interest in your products and services. There are a variety of sponsorship levels available, allowing you to find the best option that aligns with your goals and budget.

How do Sponsors Benefit?

- You put your organization in front of a select, elite audience, to powerfully communicate your company's message
- You generate new contacts, and renewed interest for your products
- You demonstrate your company's support for technical excellence as a supplier and employer before this key constituency
- Sponsors can choose from many levels of sponsorship options
