

Julie Holden is a Senior Consultant in Jacobs Singapore and a professional in Safety, Health and Environmental Management. She has over thirty years' experience within a petrochemical operational and regulatory environment dealing with risk identification and management, Control of Major Accident Hazards (COMAH) safety cases, emergency control and planning, Environmental Permitting Regulations (EPR / IPPC) authorisations, REACH, EUETS, safe systems of work, safety management systems, auditing and certification, human factors and occupational hygiene, epidemiology, civil and criminal litigation and occupational health. Additionally she has held responsibility for SHE systems management, regulatory compliance, providing legal support and operational advice to legal teams