AIChE Ambassador Program

The idea behind this exciting initiative is this: To offer every Student Chapter a professional in the field – an "Ambassador" – who will explain and promote the benefits of membership by visiting a nearby Student Chapter to speak about a topic of professional interest to future chemical engineers. This will give Local Sections the opportunity to build relationships with these future chemical engineers, who will more likely become Local Section members upon graduation.

Benefits of Involvement

Participation in the Ambassador Program is simple and convenient. AIChE will match professionals in the field with local Student Chapters. By coordinating with Student Chapter leaders, Ambassadors will attend a chapter meeting, share their personal experiences with AIChE, and create a buzz about student membership.

Each Student Chapter will:

- Connect their members with a chemical engineer in the field
- Build relationships between students and their Local Section
- Have the potential to start an ongoing relationship with a local industry contact

In addition to what the Student Chapter will receive, everyone will benefit from the program:

- Ambassadors gain the satisfaction of helping future chemical engineers by sharing their own experiences. They help strengthen the national and Local Sections of AIChE and gain public recognition for their efforts.
- Students learn more about the short- and long-term benefits they receive as national members of AIChE and how to maximize them.
- Student Chapter Presidents and Advisors have the opportunity to build relationships with valuable professional resources in the field.
- AIChE grows by building on positive relationships between members and Student Chapters as well as students who are more likely to take advantage of the benefits of membership and remain members after graduation.
